Season of German plums and prunes is in full swing. From July to October, plums are harvested at all local growing areas, arriving fresh in the German supermarkets. And this, to the delight of the consumers. Because 41 percent of Germans consider the plum to be their favourite fruit. Prunes and prune juice are well known for their ability to relieve constipation. This is partly due to the high amount of fiber in prunes. One prune provides 1 gram of fiber (2). The fiber in prunes is mostly insoluble, which means it does not blend with water.
